

We invite you to take a simple step, to join us and help extend the River Trail network and enhance river access

The Sacramento is one of the nation's greatest rivers, it flows through the heart of our city and connects us daily to wild places and outdoor living.

Shasta Living Streets, The Fly Shop, The Civic Auditorium and Turtle Bay have teamed up to support the City of Redding to scope and implement improvements along the riverfront west of the Sundial Bridge.

We are asking our members and customers, partners and friends to join us and take a simple step to build a community-contribution fund that will support City of Redding trail and boat ramp improvement project. This fund will be used to develop improvements that build on our current assets, address specific challenges, and make improvements today that will benefit families and businesses in the near term, while also creating a legacy for our community into the future.

How you can help

Join others and make a donation to the community-contribution fund for the next step to care for our spectacular river and the intersection between the river, our city and the people who live, work, and play.

Make a Donation Today

Your contribution will bring improvements to benefit our local fisheries and the boating and tourism industry, as well as local individuals, families and visitors who will enjoy the trail and bikeway. Your donation is tax deductible. Send your address, we will return a receipt of your donation.

Riverfront Park to the Boat Ramp Improvements

This riverfront site is used by fishermen, boaters, rafters, kayakers, paddle boarders, and more. The convenient location just upstream from the world-famous Sundial Bridge, Turtle Bay Museum and soon to be built hotel makes it a priority site for residents of Redding and Shasta County as well as tourists visiting from all over the state, country, even the world.

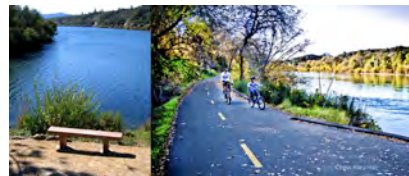

Enhance River Access

The planned upgrade to this area includes enhancements to the riparian area along the river that will benefit the important fisheries and spawning areas in this section of the river. Boating improvements include widening and re-paving to allow for multiple vehicle launching, a graded area for drift boat, raft, and kayak parking to reduce congestion in the launch area, and will blend in well with the extension to the River Trail Network, improvements to the roads into the boat ramp area and parking lot, and added greenspace and fishermen's access along the river between the boat ramp and the bridge.

Extend the River Trail Network

Enhancements are planned for this area to allow people to walk along the river, enjoy seating and picnic areas and to ride a bike from the Sundial Bridge along this southern shore of the river. Long-term planning is underway to make a connection from this area of Turtle Bay into downtown Redding. The scoping process will help determine how this section of trail can enhance the planned bikeway and trail that will connect downtown Redding to the Turtle Bay hotel, Sundial Bridge, Civic Auditorium and other attractions in the area.
